Lawmakers to Meet on Income Levy

Residents Oppose Property Tax Increase, Council Says

A proposal by Council President Michael Schuller to place a one-mill city operating levy on the November ballot was virtually withdrawn Tuesday night by Schuller after Council members said a great number of residents are opposed to additional property taxes.

Schuller, at last night's regular meeting of Council, requested the councilmen to report on the reactions of local citizenry to the proposal. Most of the councilmen related they had heard considerable opposition to the tax.

Levy Termed Burdensome

Many opinions cited the inability of retired persons and pensioners to pay the increased property levy. Others noted the present levy was already burdensome. The tax is $38.70 per $1,000 valuation.

Councilman Schuller said at the meeting that he had merely proposed the measure to test public reaction to increased property levies in the face of some concerted opposition to the proposed six-tenths of one per cent income tax suggested late last year. That tax measure has had two of the three readings required by law. Seven months have elapsed since the second reading.

Schuller said evidence of the public sentiment against further property levies should give Council new encouragement to proceed with the income tax measure regardless of some contrary opinions.

Not Answer to Problem

The adverse reaction shows real estate taxes are not the answer to the city's present financial problem and that proposals by the Joint Income Tax Study Committee to enact increased property taxes are "ridiculous," he said.

The Study Committee came under more fire from Councilman Fred Koenreich who declared he didn't think the group had made much effort to determine the feasibility of some of its proposals. Subsequent findings of Council show many of the supposed solutions are impractical.

He included in this category: The committee's proposal that the School Board take over the adult school patrol program. The school board has since rejected the proposal on grounds it would be illegal.

Wouldn't Benefit General Fund

Sale of The City Lighting System to the Ohio Edison Co. It was learned last night from City Solicitor James D. Primm that proceeds from the sale would not benefit the General Fund because they must be deposited either in the Permanent Improvement Fund or in the Bond Retirement Fund. The only way in which the sale money could be placed in the General Fund, Primm said, was to take the issue to the Common Pleas Court and have the court make the transfer.

Both of the above proposals were originally made by the committee to point out that there were available sources of income without resorting to an income tax. Council has set up a committee-of-the-whole meeting for next Tuesday.

Congo Cabinet To Seek Troops From Russia

Invites Others to Help Restore Order, Including Red China

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — The Congo Cabinet decided today to appeal immediately to the Soviet Union to send troops to help restore order in the disturbed new republic.

The appeal also invited troops from "any other country to the Afro-Asian plan," presumably the nations that attended the Bandung conference in Indonesia in 1955. That would include Red China.

Making the announcement, at a news conference immediately after the Cabinet meeting, Premier Patrice Lumumba said the mission of these troops would be:

1. To effect the peaceful evacuation of Belgian soldiers from the Congo.
2. Assist in maintaining order in the country in conformity with government's decisions.
3. Prevent all foreign aggression.

The communique said the Cabinet decision was made because the Belgian government refused to withdraw its troops from the Congo in conformity with the decisions of the United Nations Security Council and of the Congo government. It also said the U.N. troops in the country had failed to effect the withdrawal of the Belgians.

The Belgians agreed to a U.N. command request to pull out of Leopoldville. They already have begun withdrawing.

The Belgians already have begun turning over patrol duties to the swelling U.N. force in Leopoldville, but other units still patrolled in about 20 cities and towns scattered over the strife-torn African republic.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld announced in New York he plans to fly to the Congo Saturday to check on the situation. Tonight he will make a progress report to the Security Council on the swiftly mobilized, blue-

'Hit Back' Policy Adopted by U.S.

Ike Gives Go-Ahead Against Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported today to be all for a policy of American officials hitting back hard and fast at Kremlin propaganda onslaughts against the United States.

Word from the summer White House at Newport, R.I., was that the President had given a personal go-ahead on this at a conference there Tuesday with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other key foreign policy advisers.

Much of the hitting back reportedly will be done through the United Nations, where U.S. and Soviet delegates have been sparring verbally this week over the Cuban situation.

But Herter made it apparent on leaving the Newport meeting that not all of the return fire will originate in the U.N.

He promptly accused the Soviet Union of waging "a very provocative type" of an anti-American campaign. Asked by newsmen to speculate on the motives for the Soviet attitude, he said: "We take this attitude seriously and regard it as one we should give serious consideration to."

Officials Find $20 Counterfeit Press; Arrest 1 Man

YOUNGSTOWN Ohio (AP) — Federal agents raided a house in Liberty Twp., Trumbull County, Tuesday and confiscated a printing press which they said was used to turn out counterfeit $20 bills.

One man was arrested, but his name was withheld.

Michael P. Burger, agent in charge of the Secret Service, announced details of the raid in Cleveland. He said the man in custody would be arraigned in Youngstown.

Counterfeit $20 bills have turned up in Cleveland and Akron recently. Two Cleveland men were arrested and pleaded guilty last week to charges of passing such phony notes.

"Passers of the phony bills and the makers of the bills don't always have a connection," said Burger.

The confiscated printing press was found in a crated box. Paper and ink were discovered in another box. The printing apparently was being done in the rear of the house, Burger said.

34 Belgians Killed In Plane Crash In Congo

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—A Belgian transport plane crashed in the Congo today, killing 34 Belgian soldiers and seriously injuring seven, the government announced.

The plane, a C119 Flying Boxcar, hit a volcanic peak near Gombe, north of Lake Kivu. The crash scene is in the eastern Congo, scene of violence against whites early in the uprising of Negro soldiers of the Congo army.

Belgian military sources said the soldiers were members of an airfield defense company. They had left Belgium Sunday night for the Congo.

helmeted U.N. force the Council ordered to the Congo last week to restore order.

Tunisia was reported planning to introduce a resolution before the Council calling for speedier withdrawal of the Belgian troops. Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny was flying to New York with a proposal for a Council embargo against arms shipments to the Congo and a request for an international investigation of alleged U.N. force.

Toledo Man Appointed Head of Lisbon Schools

LISBON — Russell C. Armitage, 40, of Toledo was named superintendent of Lisbon schools by the Board of Education Tuesday night, succeeding Supt. Loren Early who resigned to accept a similar position at Olmstead Falls.

Armitage, a native of Ravenna, was given a two-year contract at an annual salary of $9,500. Assistant superintendent of Lucas County schools since 1953, he graduated in 1947 from Kent State University where he received his master's degree in 1956.

Armitage was bandmaster at Millersburg Military Academy in 1947-48 and served as assistant principal at Streetsboro Local School from 1955 to 1957. He was a research assistant at Ohio State University in 1957-58.

He served in the Air Force for 15 years, attaining the rank of captain.

Armitage probably will sign the contract Friday when he comes here to inspect the school system. He is expected to begin his new duties around the middle of August.

The board considered 24 applications for the post. Dr. Wade Bacon, president, said.

Early has been superintendent of Lisbon Schools since Oct. 16, 1954. A native of East Palestine, he came to Lisbon from Salem where he was serving as principal of the Junior High School.

Olmstead Falls has an enrollment of 1,900 students.

Group Seeks Meeting on Rt. 45 Issue

A delegation of S. Lincoln Ave. residents heard City Council say last night there was little remaining for the State Highway Department to do to get Rt. 45 off S. Lincoln Ave.

The delegation, as a result of the session, may meet with William McKenna, Division 11 engineer for the State Highway Department, regarding the issue. Mayor Dean Cranmer has promised to attempt to schedule the meeting.

Residents were told by Council that it had done all it could on the matter. Council President Michael Schuller recalled that the last effort to have the route removed from Lincoln Ave. and placed on Pidgeon Rd. was stymied in Columbus by a petition opposing the move filed by residents of Pidgeon Rd.

One representative of the delegation, Dr. C. J. Lehwald, pointed out that residents had Lincoln Ave. paved at considerable expense, and that the heavy traffic was destroying the surface. He also noted that it was dangerous to pedestrians, especially children, to attempt to cross the highway under present conditions.

Later reports from the State Highway Department, according to councilmen, do not clarify the future of the route. President Schuller stated that the last he heard of a route running almost parallel with the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks. Another route, mentioned by Mayor Cranmer, starts farther south, near the Zeigler's Market, and heads northwest to Rt. 62.

Council reported it had received a letter from the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce recommending that the truck traffic not headed for a local destination be rerouted off city streets.

The letter, signed by Horace Schwartz, was turned over to the traffic and safety committee.

Strategists Plan To Nominate Rocky

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's strategists aimed a well-heeled blitz today at the nearly impregnable wall Vice President Richard M. Nixon has built around the GOP presidential nomination.

A Rockefeller strategist said the decision had been made to place the New York governor's name in nomination before the Republican National Convention which opens Monday.

This move was reportedly approved by Rockefeller personally in a conference with his leaders which preceded a personal appearance before the party's platform committee Tuesday.

The governor has said he is available for a draft but doesn't expect one to materialize.

The objective of the move appeared to be an attempted convention stampede such as supporters of Adlai E. Stevenson tried to engineer at the Los Angeles Democratic National Convention. Its chance for success seemed little greater than the abortive Stevenson push.

But Rockefeller's most enthusiastic supporters were talking in terms of collecting upwards of 300 votes on the first ballot. This claim had Nixon's backers shaking their heads in incredulous amazement.

Leonard W. Hall, Nixon's campaign manager without title, said that as a result of primary, convention and individual action around 1,100 of 1,331 delegate votes stand publicly committed to Nixon in one way or another.

No one, outside of a handful of Rockefeller enthusiasts, could fathom the mathematics by which this Nixon total could be reduced below the 666 needed for the nomination by even the most vigorous sort of draft operation.

Rockefeller might command most of New York's 96 votes in a showdown, but where others would come from remained a puzzle.

The governor himself said he agreed that a majority of the committee's reactions Tuesday were in sharp contrast to the way its counterpart at the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles greeted its witnesses. The Democrats warmly applauded those urging a bolder government role in the nation's life, and this was reflected in their platform.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona was the darling of the day for the Republican committee members. He is perhaps the party's bitterest critic of government spending and related programs. His introduction drew a standing ovation that included many wild cheers. When he finished he was given another ovation.

By contrast, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York drew a polite reception. He is an advocate of government assistance in some welfare fields and of government efforts to speed the nation's economic growth.

Some party leaders said they believed the platform will fall somewhere between the conflicting viewpoints of Goldwater and Rockefeller. They based this on the belief that Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the probable presidential nominee, will urge a middle road.

Goldwater told the committee he is concerned that his party

Nease Company Will Employ 30 At Start

New Industry For City Is Secured By SAIDC Officers

The Salem Area Industrial Development Corporation announced today that the Nease Chemical Co., Inc., of State College, Pa., will build a plant here, providing Salem with a new industry that will employ at least 30 persons at the outset.

Nease Chemical, a rapidly-growing nine-year-old firm which has operations or interests at five locations in four states, manufactures intermediate organic chemicals for the pharmaceutical industry, the plastics industry and the chemical industries in general.

The firm is headed by Dr. Aubrey Nease of State College, who is a native Oklahoman and a graduate of the University of Texas.

Actually, the Salem plant will replace the company's factory at Lock Haven, Pa., which must be vacated by next March 1 because of a lease expiration and difficulties over renewal of the lease.

The Salem Area Industrial Development Corporation first conferred with Dr. Nease May 25 after

Glass Factory Eyes Salem As Location

Negotiations are in progress for still another new industry for Salem, Arch Bricker, president of the Salem Industrial Development Corporation, disclosed today.

"There is a strong possibility that we may get a glass factory to locate here," he said. "The owner wants to move to eastern Ohio from West Virginia and is considering Salem as a site for his operations."

SAIDC learned that Nease Chemical Co. was looking for a plant site in eastern Ohio, Arch Bricker, president of SAIDC, explained. Subsequent and frequent meetings followed.

Mr. Bricker lauded his committee for its untiring work in successfully bringing about the decision of Dr. Nease to locate the plant in Salem.

Construction to Start Soon
Construction of the new building is expected to begin within the matter of weeks at a 30-acre site the firm purchased on the Benton Road, although SAIDC holds options on two other plant sites.

Dr. Nease, who said that he was highly pleased with treatment and cooperation received by Salem industrial development leaders declared that the Salem factory will become the main production plant for the company.

Ronald Smith, now at the Lock Haven plant, will be manager of the Salem operations. A few key personnel will be brought to Salem but others will be employed locally, Mr. Bricker explained.

"We will employ 30 persons when we start production but hope to grow and employ still more," Dr. Nease commented.

Nease Chemical Company's Salem plant will serve principally the Midwest markets, although the firm does business throughout the eastern part of the nation.

Equipment to be Installed
Glass-lined and stainless steel reactors and distillation equipment will be installed in the factory here as soon as the building is erected.

Chemicals to the local plant will be shipped by rail and by truck, it was explained. Distribution of the finished products will be principally by truck and shipped in drums and metal and fibre containers.

The Nease Chemical Co. was founded at Lock Haven, Pa., in 1951, with the State College plant being added six years later. In 1959 the headquarters was established at State College, with offices and a research center being occupied there this past spring.

In February of 1959 a plant was established at Fernald, near Cincinnati, and just this summer Nease Chemicals acquired the Nechem Products Co. of Neosho, Mo. Still another plant is at High Point, N.C., where flexible polyurethane foams are manufactured.

The company's overall sales last year amounted to $3,062,960, which represented an increase of 65 per cent over 1958, according to the firm's financial statement.

11 Die, 20 Hurt As 2 Destroyers Ram

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Patrick Medeiros, bow lookout aboard the freshly refitted destroyer Collett, peered anxiously into fog as thick as cotton candy. His ship seemed to be gliding blindly through a cloud.

Suddenly Medeiros screamed into his microphone: "Ship dead ahead!"

An instant later the newly painted bow of the Collett smashed into the destroyer Ammen, a kamikaze-scarred veteran on its way to the boneyard.

Then Medeiros, 19, of Honolulu, heard the awesome sounds of disaster at sea—frantic shouts, the clanging of bells, death screams, the hiss of steam, and the rip and tear of steel.

Medeiros escaped with a bruised thigh, but 11 other Navy men died in the collision Tuesday. At least 20 others were hurt, but only six were hospitalized.

The Ammen, heading for San Diego and deactivation, had just unloaded her explosives at nearby Seal Beach. Otherwise both ships could have been blown out of the water.

The 376-foot Collett left her bow anchor embedded in the Ammen's twisted superstructure and carried off a crushed Ammen seaman in the fan-like wreckage of her own bow.

When the bow lookout first yelled, the Collett's skipper, Cmdr. A.T. Ford of St. Petersburg, Fla., shouted from the bridge: "All engines back full. Right full rudder."

Too late. The Collett, apparently in a turn, struck the Ammen's port side below the waterline just astern of amidships, then slid up and smashed into the superstructure. Those killed were all aboard the Ammen and had been working in two offices above deck.

"Stop engines," ordered Cmdr. Zaven Mukhalian, captain of the Ammen.

The damage control party quickly went below and secured watertight doors. The Ammen looked

Israelis Ready Evidence for Eichmann Trial

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli prosecutors preparing for the trial of Adolf Eichmann, 54, are being assisted by historians who have compiled the world's most complete library on anti-Semitism and Nazi war crimes.

The ex-Nazi colonel, charged with masterminding the slaughter of six million Jews, is unwittingly contributing to the giant records. Daily Eichmann is called before Bureau 66 for interrogation. This bureau is a special 20-man police team assigned to the case after Eichmann was tracked down in Argentina and brought back to Israel for trial.

At the same time a group of Israeli experts continues to supply a constant flow of Eichmann material to the bureau. These experts on World War II history, with particular reference to the Jewish problems, are working in the office of Yad Vashem. The organization has thousands of original documents on persecution of the Jews and an enormous microfilm laboratory of documents used in the Nuremberg and other war crimes trials.

Dr. Aryeh Kubovy, Yad Vashem's chairman, said further collection of Eichmann material may take five or six months, setting back his trial to 1961.

Sinatra May Face Assault Charges

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The city attorney's office says it will decide today if any charges will be filed against Frank Sinatra as the aftermath of a row with a parking lot attendant.

Sinatra denied at a hearing Tuesday that he had pushed Edward E. Moran, 21, at a Hollywood night club last May 14. Moran told a previous hearing held by the city attorney that Sinatra shoved him, then called on an acquaintance, John Hopkins, for help.

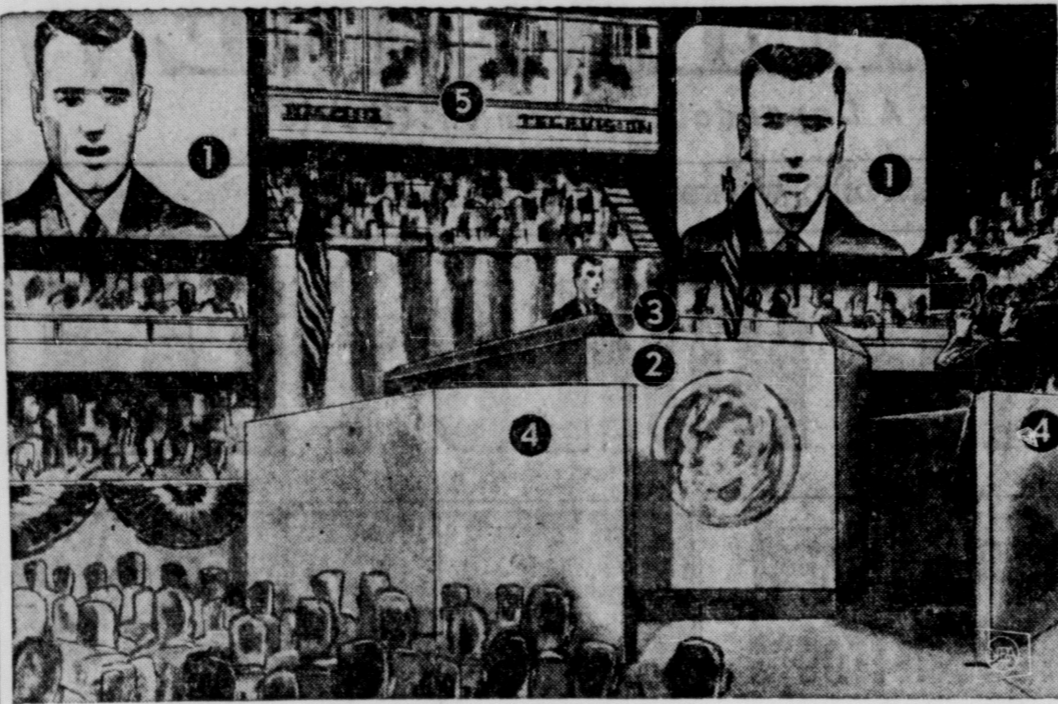

Hopkins, Moran said, hit him five or six times with his fists. Sinatra said he had stepped off a curb when a car driven by another attendant "screeched to a stop six inches from me."

"I was shaken," the singer related, "and I started to berate the driver when Moran came up. He came toward me and I put up my hands to keep him away, but I didn't shove him."

TURNER ELIGIBLE TO RUN SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Granville L. Turner Democratic candidate for the General Assembly from Clark County, has been ruled eligible for the November election. However, he will not be eligible to seek elective office for five years after that, the Clark County Board of Elections decided. The board made the ruling because Turner failed to file an expense account as a candidate for party precinct committeeman, but did file an account as a candidate in the assembly race.

He made two main points: 1. "If we are to establish a test for the presidency whereby 14 years in major elective office is insufficient experience, then all but a handful of our presidents since the very founding of this nation would have to be ruled out."

2. "To exclude from positions of trust and command all those below the age of 44 would have kept Jefferson from writing the Declaration of Independence, Washington from commanding the Continental Army, Madison from fathering the Constitution, Hamilton from serving as secretary of the treasury, Clay from being elected speaker of the House, and Christopher Columbus from discovering America. ## Is It Worth It?

By HAL BOYLE

LAKE TARLETON, N.H. (AP) — Every father remembers the first time he lied for his daughter. She doesn't—but he does.

Well, I came here to appear at a summer arts festival where people on vacation respond to world problems while they simmer and summer under the sun.

They may not solve any problems at the moment, but they hear them at their leisure—and this is not a bad way to study any problem. Anxiety often produces premature efforts to a wrong conclusion.

As to my lying, there was a shortage of other children, here, but there was a boy here whose father said his son was "almost 10." And I said my daughter, who is one month beyond 7, was "growing on 8."

Well, that is true, for sure, but it only alerts me to those half-truths which aren't whole truths but which are part of the whole picture which a father must soften in presenting the portrait of his daughter.

If she would rather be antiquated at 7, and perhaps at 30 presented as 23, it is the function of the father to box the calendar to his daughter's will.

In her own way Tracy made up the distance between her age of 7, and Tommy's almost 10, and she showed that kind of uncanny feminine sense of adjustment that in my opinion represents military genius.

There are those who feel that true military ability consists of getting the other person, without waste of himself, to bend his ability to your purpose and the sustenance of your endeavor. Under this definition the best militarism is a good marriage.

Well anyway, Tracy, my daughter, made her march on Tommy, and employed her childhood feminine tentacles which later she will fasten to a later fellow and cling to—and the Lord help him.

At the present moment I have only a philosophic feeling of help toward my future son-in-law. I feel, being observant to the terrible grasp of my daughter, I should raise a fund for him to run away from home if he isn't content.

Yet my daughter is not without her kindness, now and I hope forever.

The other night, just before our one-week vacation was over, I took her for a walk in these green-templed hills when the evening star lit the eternal meadows of the dark.

Tracy is neighbor to both nature and nurture, and I held her hand till we came to a wishing well on the way home. I gave her three pennies to drop in the well—a coin for her father, her mother, and herself.

"I wished for you and Mommy the same thing—a happy life," she said. "And I wished I would marry a nice boy and have a nice life, too."

Jazz Drummer Wonders about Gold

FT. KNOX (AP) — Jazz drummer Al Carter, 40, wondered if the 12½ billion dollars in gold stored at the gold vault here was safely stored. So he came to check.

Custodian Albert Evans gave his word of honor the gold was okay, but he wouldn't let the Chicagoan closer than the gate.

Carter has written dozens of letters asking admittance to the vault but has been turned down every time.

His last letter, to Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower, explained he didn't "want to bother the President right now because he's busy with Mr. Khrushchev and Mr. Castro." He asked if Mrs. Eisenhower might bring up the subject to the President when "he is sitting around relaxing some night."

Kennedy Plans Major Steps For Campaign

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy called top strategists to his vacation home here today to plan major steps in the campaign he hopes will take him to the White House. He had to cut into his "complete rest" vacation to do it.

The conference will cover such subjects as when and where to launch his election campaign and a coast-to-coast drive to register every potential voter with Democratic leanings.

Kennedy announced Tuesday night the appointment of Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. (D-NJ) as director of the National Registration Committee.

Chief among the strategy group, of course, is Kennedy's campaign manager brother Robert, already on the scene. He directed the months long drive through the presidential primaries which brought Kennedy to Los Angeles as the front runner and made him first-ballot winner of the Democratic nomination.

With them will be James Rowe, a Washington lawyer who was once an aide to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"The Mountebank's Tale" by Sir Michael Redgrave. A short novel about an actor by a famous British actor. Mystery and intrigue as well as the world of the theatre.

"Anybody's Spring" by A. A. Murray. A novel of South Africa involving all the members of a family. A sympathetic story about what happens to each one of them—how tragedy resulted from mistakes made long before, and how hope finally comes from the source judged most unlikely.

"The Seeker" by Allen Wheelis. The psychoanalyst has become an important of our American scene in these times. This novel is about a psychoanalyst who spends most of his life trying to find meaning in his own life, only to realize that he has been doing more self-destruction than anything else.

"Venetian Red" by P. M. Pasinetti. Two families of Venice represent the two opposing forces in a way which might be described as the destroyers against the creators. In such a story there is bound to be excitement and tension and intrigue and suspense and some violence as well.

"Best of the Best Detective Stories" ed. by David C. Cooke. Fifteen of the stories which the editor considers best of the ones published in the annual during the last 50 years.

"Tippy Lockin'" by Joseph W. Meagher. Tippy grew up in Brooklyn in the Twenties. To him it was a very wonderful place and he was the center of it all. It is a nostalgic and humorous tale filled with the aura of the period.

"No Marriage in Heaven" by Grace Nies Fletcher. A spoiled beauty from Texas marries an impetuous Yankee preacher, who is an assistant pastor in Boston. Their young married life takes place during the twenties which was a time hard enough for preachers families under any circumstances. Mrs. Fletcher can always bring out the humor in such situations however.

"The Marriage Broker" by Irving Meites. A delightful collection of stories about a modern Yiddish matchmaker. The humor is of an everyday sort but each story has a charmingly different twist to it.

Kennedy Plans Way to Meet Personal Issues

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent
(Third of a Series)

Sen. John Fitzgerald Kennedy is a Roman Catholic. He is 43 years old but looks younger.

To some politicians both facts are handicaps to a candidate for the presidency. Kennedy's religion involved the memory of the 1928 election when the Democratic candidate, Alfred E. Smith of New York, a Catholic, went down to defeat. As to Kennedy's age, former President Truman recently asked him to consider whether he is sufficiently mature and experienced to be president. Kennedy himself recognized that the voters might wonder about him on both counts.

So nearly a year ago, before he announced for the Democratic nomination, he set out to meet the two questions, head-on. As his campaign progressed, he used three principal tactics—

Israelis Ready Evidence for Eichmann Trial

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli prosecutors preparing for the trial of Adolf Eichmann, 54, are being assisted by historians who have compiled the world's most complete library on anti-Semitism and Nazi war crimes.

The ex-Nazi colonel, charged with masterminding the slaughter of six million Jews, is unwittingly contributing to the giant records. Daily Eichmann is called before Bureau 66 for interrogation. This bureau is a special 20-man police team assigned to the case after Eichmann was tracked down in Argentina and brought back to Israel for trial.

At the same time a group of Israeli experts continues to supply a constant flow of Eichmann material to the bureau. These experts on World War II history, with particular reference to the Jewish problems, are working in the office of Yad Vashem. The organization has thousands of original documents on persecution of the Jews and an enormous microfilm laboratory of documents used in the Nuremberg and other war crimes trials.

Dr. Aryeh Kubovoy, Yad Vashem's chairman, said further collection of Eichmann material may take five or six months, setting back his trial to 1961.

He then stated, as he was to restate many times later, his reasons for insisting that a man's religion should not be a factor in his fitness for office.

In his Wisconsin campaign, Kennedy said, time and again, that as president he would not accept dictation from any source.

Before the West Virginia primary, he said: "I would hate to think I lost this election the day I was baptized." Paul Ziffren, California national committeeman says this single sentence gave Kennedy the state.

Then, before the American Society of Newspaper Editors meeting in Washington last April, Kennedy made a full-dress review of the question.

Among other things, he told the editors: "There is only one legitimate question: Would you, as president of the United States, be responsive in any way to ecclesiastical pressures or obligations of any kind that might in any fashion influence or interfere with your conduct of that office in the national interest? I have answered that question many times. My answer was and is 'No.'"

He said he opposed federal aid to parochial schools and would oppose, if the issue arose, an ambassador to the Vatican.

Referring to the Wisconsin primary, he asked: "Of those Catholics who voted for me, how many did so on grounds of religion; how many because they felt my opponent was too radical; how many because they were union members; how many for some other reason? I do not know. And the facts are that no one knows."

"For the voters are more than Catholics, Protestants, or Jews. They make up their minds for many diverse reasons, good and bad."

He noted that he had taken the path of office many times, as senator and congressman, and that "little or no attention was paid to my religion" on those occasions. He asked, "What is there about the presidency that justifies this constant emphasis upon a candidate's religion?"

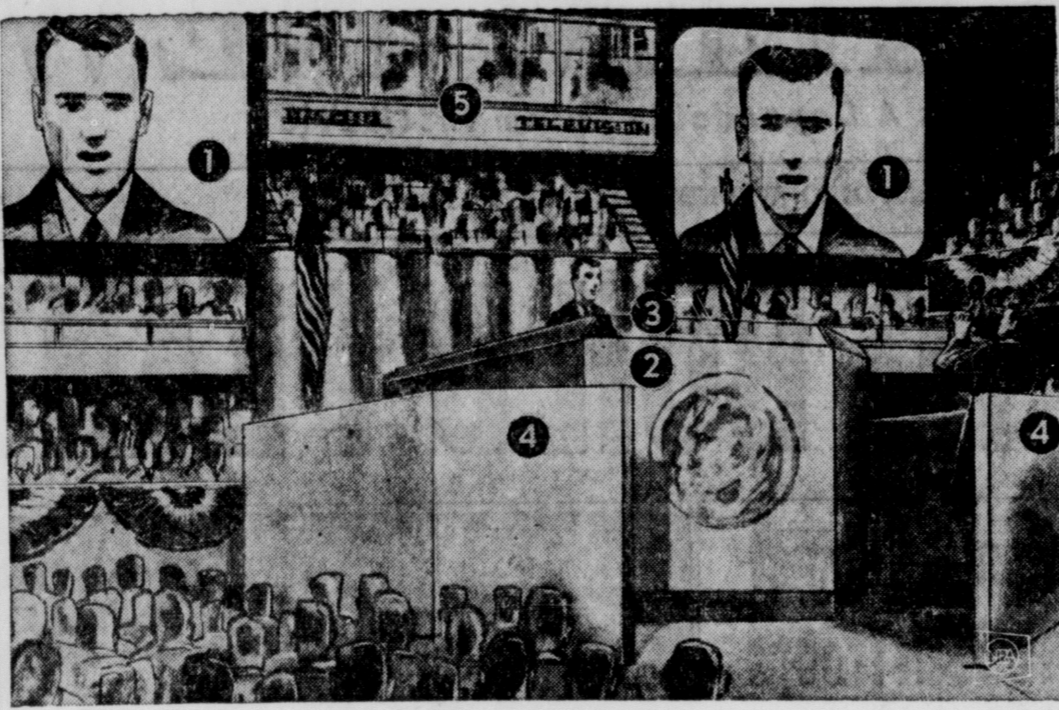

Finally, he noted that the issue exists, and said, "It is my job to face it frankly and fully."

The matter of Kennedy's age and experience did not arise so often. But after Truman's question, Kennedy went on television to answer it.

He made two main points:

1. "If we are to establish a test for the presidency whereby 14 years in major elective office is insufficient experience, then all but a handful of our presidents since the very founding of this nation would have to be ruled out."

2. "To exclude from positions of trust and command all those below the age of 44 would have kept Jefferson from writing the Declaration of Independence, Washington from commanding the Continental Army, Madison from fathering the Constitution, Hamilton from serving as secretary of the treasury, Clay from being elected speaker of the House, and Christopher Columbus from discovering America. I do not believe the American people are willing to impose any such test. For this is still a young country, founded by young men. . . ."

WHAT GOP WILL SEE — Images 12 times life size will permit delegates to the Republican National Convention a clear view of the goings-on in Chicago's International Amphitheater. Two large screens (1), each some 750 square feet in area, will carry closed-circuit TV images of speakers on rostrum (center). Cameras concealed in rostrum's front (2) will televise views of speaker which will make him appear to look down on the crowd. One-way screen (3) will be transparent to delegates, but on surface facing speaker script for his speech will appear. Press and newsreel photographers will shoot from behind free-standing walls (4). Booths above floor (5) will house other communications personnel. Data from Theater Network Television, inc., which has installed the closed-circuit system.

Is It Worth It?

By HAL BOYLE

LAKE TARTLETON, N.H. (AP) — Every father remembers the first time he lied for his daughter. She doesn't—but he does.

Well, I came here to appear at a summer arts festival where people on vacation respond to world problems while they simmer and summer under the sun.

They may not solve any problems at the moment, but they hear them at their leisure—and this is not a bad way to study any problem. Anxiety often produces premature efforts to a wrong conclusion.

As to my lying, there was a shortage of other children, here, but there was a boy here whose father said his son was "almost 10." And I said my daughter, who is one month beyond 7, was "growing on 8."

Well, that is true, for sure, but it only alerts me to those half-truths which aren't whole truths but which are part of the whole picture which a father must soften in presenting the portrait of his daughter.

If she would rather be antiquated at 7, and perhaps at 30 presented as 23, it is the function of the father to box the calendar to his daughter's will.

In her own way Tracy made up the distance between her age of 7, and Tommy's almost 10, and she showed that kind of uncanny feminine sense of adjustment that in my opinion represents military genius.

There are those who feel that true military ability consists of getting the other person, without waste of himself, to bend his ability to your purpose and the sustenance of your endeavor. Under this definition the best militarism is a good marriage.

Well anyway, Tracy, my daughter, made her march on Tommy, and employed her childhood feminine tentacles which later she will fasten to a later fellow and cling to—and the Lord help him.

At the present moment I have only a philosophic feeling of help toward my future son-in-law. I feel, being observant to the terrible grasp of my daughter, I should raise a fund for him to run away from home if he isn't content.

Yet my daughter is not without her kindness, now and I hope forever.

The other night, just before our one-week vacation was over, I took her for a walk in these green-templed hills when the evening star lit the eternal meadows of the dark.

Tracy is neighbor to both nature and nurture, and I held her hand till we came to a wishing well on the way home. I gave her three pennies to drop in the well—a coin for her father, her mother, and herself.

"I wished for you and Mommy the same thing—a happy life," she said. "And I wished I would marry a nice boy and have a nice life, too."

Jazz Drummer Wonders about Gold

FT. KNOX (AP) — Jazz drummer Al Carter, 40, wondered if the 12½ billion dollars in gold stored at the gold vault here was safely stored. So he came to check.

Custodian Albert Evans gave his word of honor the gold was okay, but he wouldn't let the Chicagoan closer than the gate. Carter has written dozens of letters asking admittance to the vault but has been turned down every time.

His last letter, to Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower, explained he didn't "want to bother the President right now because he's busy with Mr. Khrushchev and Mr. Castro." He asked if Mrs. Eisenhower might bring up the subject to the President when "he is sitting around relaxing some night."

Kennedy Plans Major Steps For Campaign

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy called top strategists to his vacation home here today to plan major steps in the campaign he hopes will take him to the White House.

He had to cut into his "complete rest" vacation to do it.

The conference will cover such subjects as when and where to launch his election campaign and a coast-to-coast drive to register every potential voter with Democratic leanings.

Kennedy announced Tuesday night the appointment of Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. (D-N.J.) as director of the National Registration Committee.

Chief among the strategy group, of course, is Kennedy's campaign manager brother Robert, already on the scene. He directed the months long drive through the presidential primaries which brought Kennedy to Los Angeles as the front runner and made him first-ballot winner of the Democratic nomination.

With them will be James Rowe, a Washington lawyer who was once an aide to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Ah Yes, the Monroe Doctrine

Repeated references to the Monroe Doctrine are sending citizens to their reference books, to see exactly what this doctrine is they are hearing about again but never fully understood.

They do not find what they are looking for. It is like looking up the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution to see what protects witnesses quizzed by congressional investigators and discovering that the Fifth Amendment covers a great deal more ground than the right of a witness to scurry for cover.

The Monroe Doctrine never was put down officially in any clear form. Originally, it was part of a presidential address by James Monroe in 1823. Since then it has been interpreted by all kinds of people for various purposes, with additions, subtractions and divisions.

Theodore Roosevelt added the idea in the Roosevelt Corollary that the United States could intervene in New World nations to prevent Old World intervention. But President Monroe, himself, had never mentioned intervention. He said the "American continents . . . are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by an European power."

This was interpreted subsequently to mean there was to be no intervention by any European power, than to mean there was to be no intervention by anyone. Yet, because intervention cannot be defined exactly, no one can say precisely when intervention has occurred—and it is this weakness that the Communist conspiracy obviously hopes to take advantage of as it spreads its mischief in Latin America. It will not colonize or intervene. It will influence.

One detail of the Monroe Doctrine as originally propounded is especially interesting. It was not created primarily to keep Europe out of South America, though that was to become its effect. The problem that had vexed Monroe directly was a Russian threat to take over the northwest coast of North America. The Russian government had issued an order prohibiting all non-Russian ships from coming within 100 miles of this coast. That could not be tolerated.

The Monroe Doctrine never was written into a treaty. It never became a law. It is part of no international agreement. It is only a brief statement by President James Monroe with hundreds of thousands of words of interpretation appended thereto—a state of mind, really, which lets the world know that attempts to nib into the New World for the purpose of making trouble for those already there will be resented by the United States.

Cutting the Wearer to the Coat

Party platforms, like everything else in politics, have changed. Or, rather, the popular attitude about party platforms has changed.

When the Democratic platform for 1960 had been read and approved, after the customary skirmish with irreconcilable southern politicians over their bread-and-butter issue, civil rights, it was filed and forgotten.

No one considers a plank in a party platform to be a pledge any more, only a statement of intent, something like a New Year's resolution. This is a new attitude, and it gives the political parties more latitude than they used to have when planks were pledges.

They can promise the moon, the stars and the Milky Way and suggest that these, too, belong with the growing list of material things Americans should have in their ever-growing list of wants.

THE CLEAREST difference between the Democratic and Republican parties in the last three decades has been the former's lack of inhibition about declarations of intent. The sky's the limit.

It started to be the limit in 1936, after the 1932 Democratic platform had exoriated the Hoover administration for spending money recklessly and promised to balance the federal budget. Taking note of Herbert Hoover's thumping defeat on the same kind of platform, only more so, the Democratic platform makers in 1936 started on a new tack. They threw prudence out the window.

They said the party henceforth would be devoted to the family, the home, the saver, the consumer, the old, the young and the veterans. They promised to show interest in all who might be overtaken by disaster, oppression, the vicissitudes of economic reality and even bankruptcy and overdue mortgage payments.

Suggestion For a New Format

Television, we suspect, is like the old-time show folks who didn't care what their critics said as long as they kept talking about them by name.

TV coverage of the first convention this year has produced gratifying criticism on that basis. At least as many proposals for betterment are being heard as were heard four years ago when the convention coverage television cameras hit its stride. Television has people talking.

But it's not only television people who should be listening. They have nothing to worry about as long as viewers continue to talk about the "entertainment" paid for by their advertisers.

The "entertainers," on the other hand, cannot afford to be indifferent to criticism of their performances no matter how many viewers have been watching. In the case of political conventions, if the "entertainers"—the politicians—are paying attention, they will note a significant similarity in the criticism.

People accustomed to the kind of speaking done by their contemporaries in the mid-20th century are puzzled by the fulminations and wild swinging of the worst of the so-called orators who show up at conventions.

They fail to understand where these people could have been in recent years now to know that the windmill style of public speaking has changed. Speakers in these times do not try to bowl over listeners with gusts.

The new style is to win their confidence with sweet reasonableness—to behave as a guest would behave if invited into the bosom of a family for a quiet little talk about politics.

This would be a total loss to listeners in the huge auditoriums where conventions are held. The audience wouldn't even know the speaker was on the platform. Only a handful of people would listen. The performance would be appreciated only by the television audience.

Exactly. Only a handful of people listen in the auditoriums. But there are millions of listeners in the television audience who think it's silly for grown men to rant and roar and twist tails in the hope of stirring up the few when it alienates the many.

Once Over

Boys will be boys, and more boys than in the past will be president. The Kennedy versus Nixon battle is a political switch to the White House youth movement in the belief the trend is definitely away from baldness, bags under eyes, adult supremacy and the old "aged-in-the-wood" concepts. Jack Kennedy, the boy wonder of Harvard, Boston, primary contests and photogenic TV political personalities, scored a victory for youth, bumper crops of hair, anti-bogosity, cooperative family life, strenuous plane travel and "Boy-Meets-Hurly-Burly" Test.

Nobody got to first base with the argument his nomination would be triumph for kid-car manufacturers, diaper services and babysitters. Jack is an extra smart, capable man with dedication and plenty of experience. Old timers are benched and the certainty of Nixon nomination means a determined turn to bullpen for kid pitchers. Nixon will also go before convention with full head of hair, high scorn for hair restorers, and aversion to "Silver Threads among the Gold" as campaign song.

BOTH LOOK MORE LIKE pro football possibilities than White House contestants, and one sure thing in this election is that "He's too old" will not be heard anywhere. Golf may take a licking as both are inclined toward a sport that calls for no electric carts to cover the ground. The Democratic convention was a pre-packaged, deep freeze session with Kennedy forces in control of the groceries and trading stamps at all times.

The November campaign will show childhood triumphing over arthritic years and premature baldness, whoever wins. "Hi, ya kid!" will become White House greeting in any event. Should Kennedy win, it will see return to some of the dash and vigor of the Teddy Roosevelt years, with more children sliding down bannisters than ever. (Maybe they rebuilt the White House just in time.)

What we can't understand is why the planks of all parties don't include, "We are for better care of hair as key to success."

We've Just Begun to Fight!

Pasternak's Grave

By PRISCILLA JOHNSON

WARSAW
The poet lies under turned-up earth on a hillside. There's nothing to mark the spot. Just a mound of dirt and two vases filled with flowers: One with yellow iris, the other with blood-red peonies.

Across a plowed valley you can see the gabled cottage where he lived. A peaceful scene.

Yet even in death Boris Pasternak is a rallying cry, a cause celebre. Even in death the Kremlin could not forgive him his proud and turbulent spirit.

At 4 p.m. on Thursday, June 2 (the very day and hour he was to be buried), members were informed, a meeting would be held of the Moscow Board of the Writers' Union—the group which expelled him after the Nobel prize award in October, 1958. That's why no official representative of Soviet letters was free to see Pasternak to his grave.

Meantime, in an effort to keep his burial from becoming a rallying point for the young, word was quietly passed around Moscow that members of the secret police would be there, armed with cameras and clicking the shutters to record faces of those who had come to be counted.

THE ONLY OFFICIAL notice given his death was a tiny sentence, buried on the back page of Moscow's two literary newspapers. Yet somehow a bit of handwritten paper went up by the ticket office at Kiev station, where you take the train to Peredelkino, Pasternak's village.

At 4 o'clock on June 2, it declared, "Boris Pasternak, the greatest poet of contemporary Russia" (Samy velikiy poet Russkoi sovremennosti) would be laid to his rest. The strange thing is, nobody took it down. The tattered sign stayed up till just a few hours before Pasternak was buried.

They came by the hundreds on the train that hot June day. There were touches, pathetic and absurd, at the panikhida, or last leave-taking, as the guests filed through the house to say goodbye.

The sorrowing women who loved him standing at the head of the open coffin. And, only a few feet away, peeled potatoes and pie shells awaiting the funeral feast. Then came the long walk under broiling sun to the grave.

Nearby, on the hilltop, gleamed the domes of the Russian Orthodox Church of the Transfiguration, which Pasternak called "azure and gold."

Beside the coffin was the bent figure of Olga, the woman who loved him and whose tears bathed the poet's face even as his wasted body was lowered into the ground.

Late into the June evening the young men carried on by the grave side, reciting poems they had composed specially for the occasion. Fine poems, like his, rich in the imagery of Russian nature, of love and the soul's torment.

A DAY OR SO later—so it now is rumored — Nikita Khrushchev called in Alexei, patriarch of all the Russians, to ask some angry questions.

Why, asked Soviet Russia's temporal overlord, had Pasternak been buried in the churchyard? Why had a religious ceremony been held the night before the funeral?

(Whether it had taken place in Pasternak's house or in the Church of the Transfiguration, no one seems to know.)

Not only is Alexei patriarch of the Russian Orthodox Church, but he was Pasternak's neighbor in Peredelkino, so he was held responsible.

Pasternak wasn't really buried in the churchyard, Alexei is said to have replied. He was buried on the hillside, and that just happens to be next to the churchyard.

As for the last rites, he didn't know a thing about them.

TODAY, things have quieted down in Peredelkino. A big wooden fence has been built around the grave, making it the largest graveyard on the hill.

A workman in blue shirt sleeves lading out rich black earth around the spot where the body is buried stands up and smiles. It's such a big graveyard, he says, "because the family wanted it that way."

Not only that, he adds: "There will soon be a good fence, an iron fence. And a monument. The architect is designing it now."

Did you know Pasternak well, a visitor asks. "I worked for him 10 years," he answers with pride.

And was he a good master? "An exceptionally fine master. There aren't many men like him nowadays."

Often, at sundown, the young men and women of Moscow come to pay their respects. Two or three on weekdays, more at weekends. They are franker now than before the poet died, about their eagerness to read "Dr. Zhivago."

They even whisper it may be published, in two or three thousand copies, in a few months' time.

But just up the hill, in the village of Peredelkino on the way to the train, and old man is sitting by the church. "Did you ever know a poet named Pasternak?" the visitor inquires.

"There may have been such a man," the villager replies. "But if there was, I never knew him." North American Newspaper Alliance

No one but a politician-orator ever pronounces the name of our country the YEW-nited States. The rest of us, if my hearing can be trusted, all say the u-NIGHT-ed States.

If former employees who drop in for office visits on their vacations wanted to do the handsome thing, they would stop at the PBX, give their name to the operator and wait five minutes while it was circulated among the old-timers who otherwise will be unable to remember it.

You wonder when you see the miles of plastic hose now in use how civilization was able to make do so long with the old-fashioned rubber hose that used to deteriorate in sunlight and become stiff as a board when the temperature dropped.

One taste I never acquired was for coffee drunk out of a cardboard container, which reminds me of the professional tea-taster who complained that tea made in tea bags might be all right, except all he ever tasted was the bag.

For a long time, I have nurtured a conviction that comparative statistics are meaningless unless they reflect identical facts. Thus, dollar comparisons are absurd unless the value of dollars is the same. Currently, my pet peeve is auto production statistics that do not take into account the difference between yesterday's ponderous cars costing upward of $5,000 and today's economy cars weighing a fraction as much and costing about 2.00.

Auto production comparisons are meaningless.

Whether Democrats or Republicans do it, it is bad taste to use well-known people from the entertainment world to shill for candidates. For the same reason, I would call it bad taste if office holders plugged plays and movies. I am working in secret on a design for a completely portable

Time for Reflection

Kennedy Speech Could Mean Different Things

LOS ANGELES

Time was when an acceptance speech by a presidential nominee was delivered a month or more after the national convention. With the tumult and the shouting over here was an opportunity for serious reflection and for the writing of a thoughtful presentation of the main issues of the campaign ahead.

The circumstances surrounding Senator Kennedy's speech gave the appearance of having been prepared in a hurry—there were many changes made in it between the time the advance copy was given to the press and actual delivery.

The objective, of course, was to get votes from the mass audience assembled here as well as before television screens throughout the country. The assumption was that the voters would be concerned only with appearances—the "image" created by a good-looking young man with a forceful style of speaking.

But in that same acceptance speech, the Democratic nominee violated one of the basic rules of fair play in American campaigning: "Never impute a lack of honesty or integrity to your opponent."

THE ATTACK which the Democratic presidential nominee made against Vice President Nixon was a shock to all who had hoped that the nominee of the Democratic Party would negate the widely held impression about his immaturity and that he would carry himself with the dignity befitting a man who might become president of the United States. Mr. Kennedy, however, impetuously clawed at his opponent when he said:

"His (Nixon's) political career has often seemed to show charity toward none and malice for all. . . . But before he (Nixon) deals, someone is going to cut the cards."

The senator later defended his plunge into personalities when, in a news conference, he said he would be bound only "by the rules of facts."

There were other statements which caused dismay. Thus, for instance, there are many who wonder just what was meant by this paragraph in the acceptance speech:

"But the new frontier of which I speak is not a set of promises—it is a set of challenges. It sums up not what I intend to offer the American people, but what I intend to ask of them. It appeals to their pride, not their pocketbook. It holds out the promise of more sacrifice instead of more security."

In the struggle for the nomination, Sen. Kennedy's age and religion loomed up as two of his serious problems. Like any good politician when faced with apparent liabilities, he sought to turn them into assets.

Now that he is nominated, he may turn to more relevant matters. The issues which will distinguish the candidates one from the other are of critical importance. Kennedy and his innumerable assistants did so well and were so earnest in meeting deficiencies that they over did it. It was made to appear that youth in itself is an indispensable quality in a President, and that anyone who opposed Kennedy was actuated by religious bigotry.

Youth in itself is no virtue. Its values, as George Bernard Shaw once suggested, are wasted on the young. Nor is gray hair, unless the brain underneath has acquired wisdom through experience.

But Kennedy has repeatedly made the point that only a president born lately can envision what is coming in the 1960s. He made the point that most of the world leaders today are men whose education was completely before the "good years" ended in 1914. This is not only a narrow view of education, but a lack of appreciation of what might be learned from the years before World War I.

It is not that these men were young. It was what they knew and understood that counted.

It is no compliment to Catholics to imply that they will vote for a man solely because of his religion. Indeed, it is an affront to their capacity to make judgments on issues which go to the heart of what the candidates are proposing to support as national policy.

I have been chastised in letters from clergymen for saying that a man's religion is irrelevant when a selection is being made for a public trust. Religion I still maintain, is not relevant if we are to believe as our constitution principles state, that in the United States there is a division between church and state and religion should not be a test for public office.

CATHOLICS will judge the candidates on the basis of their will and capacity to maintain and further the traditions of political and economic liberty and strength in the free world to oppose the Communist threat.

After the Republicans are finished with their convention, let us all get down to the serious business of making a choice which may well be the most momentous in more years than both candidates have lived.

SKIN CHANGES

Did you know that your skin type doesn't always remain the same. Not only can it change from year to year, but it usually changes with the seasons. In summer, for example, you may have twice as much oiliness as in winter. This need not be true for the entire complexion, as this comes and goes of localized oiliness is fond of showing up in the center portion of the complexion — the forehead, nose and chin. The rest of the skin can be left perfectly arid and parched.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers. Recently you printed a letter from a woman who was unhappy because her bridge club arrived 11 strong in their spike heels and ruined her vinyl vestibule.

I just finished reading an article in a magazine which revealed some shocking information. You may want to pass it along to your readers. The article was called "Girls: You're Ruining The Rug." I quote:

"Those stiletto heels dig down into the carpet, ruin the pile, puncture the backing and eventually produce holes. On vinyl, asbestos or rubber tile they are even worse, leaving pock-marks that won't disappear."

"One testing firm found that a 112-pound woman in stiletto heels exerts static pressure of 4,000 pounds per square inch every time she takes a step. A 224-pound man wearing conventional shoes exerts 24 pounds per square inch."

You're supposed to be smart, Ann Landers — what's the answer? —BAFFLED.

Dear Baffled: If you think American women are going to switch to army shoes just because spike heels are making holes in the rug and ruining the vinyl vestibule — forget it!

The style-conscious female will do as fashion dictates even if it means ragged rugs and craterers in the rubber tile. Women have demonstrated that so far as THEY are concerned, style is of paramount importance. Not only is practicality tossed to the winds but human comfort doesn't count for much either.

The new trend in women's shoes is higher heels and more sharply-pointed toes. For women with one toe this is fine but for those of us with the normal number, it's rough.

I have to suggest on how to save the floors and the rugs but I would like to suggest to thousands of limping ladies that they can save their feet by buying shoes larger, even if it means going up a whole size. . .

Too Much In Love

Dear Ann: I'm 20 and going with a fellow eight years older. I'm very much in love with him and have reason to believe he feels the same about me.

I just found out that he's been married and divorced. The information didn't come from him. A distant relative of mine who lived in the same town with the fellow told me.

I can understand how a person might make a mistake and I wouldn't have held it against him if he had told me himself. But I'm sick to think that he had tried to hide it from me.

Shall I keep this to myself and wait for him to tell me on his own? We've been dating almost seven months. Or shall I just break up with him? —DANVILLITE.

Dear Danvillite: He's entitled to a chance to confirm or deny the story. Maybe he has a cousin by the same name.

A fellow who dates a young woman for seven months and conveniently forgets to mention he has been married and divorced is a little kinky. Beware.

Overworked Joke

Dear Ann: My wife and I have been married five years. She couldn't find enough housework to keep her busy so she went out and got a job. This was Feb. 16th. She hasn't come home yet.

Do you think maybe she is working overtime? —MIAMA MIKE.

Dear Mike: I don't know about your wife but it's a cinch YOU'RE working overtime trying to be a regular "gosh-darn-it."

I wish you clowns wouldn't waste my time (or your own) with these tired jokes. I've had the full circle.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

Tuberculin Allergies Evade Medical Sleuths

The other day we were talking about tuberculin-type allergies. They make your nose run, your eyes water, your skin itch and your face break out.

Dr. H. T. Hyman

There is another allergy, sneaker and much more harmful to hypersensitive persons, many of whom have requested information about mysterious diseases that seem to come from nowhere, respond poorly or irregularly to treatment and on occasion cause invalidism or even death.

This reaction is called "tuberculin-type." But rarely has anything to do with a TB infection.

IN FACT, it rarely has anything to do with any sort of infection. And it does not require the sufferer to be isolated to prevent transmission of the disease.

Let me give you an example. Perhaps then you'll have a better understanding of how these tuberculin-type allergies develop and what you can do to prevent them or to help your doctor relieve the conditions you've inquired about.

Like the butterfly disease (lupus erythematosus), Guillain-Barre Disease, certain blood diseases (aplastic or hemolytic anemias, agranulocytosis, thrombocytopenic purpura), rheumatoid or deforming arthritis, certain eye diseases (uveitis, iritis), certain of the entire skin (exfoliative dermatitis), and others too numerous to mention.

AND NOW, the example:

The patient was a middle-aged woman who had her appendix removed many years before when it was the custom to apply sulfa powder to the stump of the infected organ.

After not feeling well for a week or so, she took her temperature and was surprised to find it almost 102 degrees.

Her doctor thought she might have gripe, and gave her a prescription for a "bug-killer."

After a few doses, she felt worse and began a series of chills with temperatures as high as 106 degrees. She was admitted to the hospital.

EVERY SORT of test was made.

Nothing significant was discovered except for an increase in the bright-staining cells (eosinophiles) of her blood.

This led to the suspicion that

IN MEMORIAM — Miss Balbine Schwarz, of Houston, Tex., has found a way to thank the World War II dead of her adopted country. She spent more than a year creating a 28x30-inch mosaic tablet inscribed with the Ten Commandments in Hebrew. The tablet was accepted by the American Battle Monuments Commission for placement in the St. Avold Memorial Cemetery in Lorraine, France. Miss Schwarz came to America in 1926 from her native Germany, where 65 of her relatives were wiped out by the Nazis.

She might have picked up a worm disease (trichinosis) from eating imperfectly cooked ham or pork. She was injected with every known "miracle drug."

After each injection, she seemed to have longer chills and higher fever.

When the possibility of a tuberculin-type allergy (periarteritis nodosa) was suggested, a hunt was begun to find some substance to which she might have developed hypersensitivity.

AFTER FOLLOWING more blind clues than a private eye in the most baffling whodunit, the medical detectives had their problem solved by an alert night nurse who noticed that her patient applied a facial ointment that she took from a jar on her bedside table each night.

The ointment contained a sulfa drug intended as an acne preventive. Use of the ointment and all other drugs was stopped.

And the patient recovered, having presumably been sensitized to sulfa at the time of her operation many years before.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

A document placed quietly before the pressured policy makers of the Democratic and Republican conventions has been understandingly lost in the hurly-burly of the clamor for civil rights, labor rights and industrial rights—though the document spoke out for the rights of over 14 million of our citizenry.

Victor Riesel

They are the millions who own shares in American industries. Ben Javits, if you wish, but they truly are widows, workers who buy a few shares a year through wage checkoffs, and white collar people in some 5 million families, among which, of course, are the Big 60.

The millions are the third force, for the most part the great, good unorganized middle class surrounded on all sides by the organized outcries of labor and the coordinated, professional, smooth-coated presentations of industry.

But not for long will the third force be voiceless, says the man behind the document, Ben Javits, brother of Jack, the senator. Where there are labor and business lobbies, where there are stockholders' gatherings, which attract more free lunchers than characters out of the Solid Gold Cadillac legend, there will be spokesmen for shareholding millions.

BEN JAVITS is head of the United Shareholders of America. Soon he will launch a drive for members—probably in September. Not for those who want to join a stock market tip outfit, but for those who want to become part of a movement.

If successful it will work in the precincts; it will bi-partisanly go into politics; it will run meetings, it will call demonstrations and go right into Congressional offices as labor and industry do with their experienced lobbyists. Some time in November, Javits and his colleagues plan a congress of shareholders and investors clubs.

Javits' appeal is that of an ice cube machine on a Sahara sand dune. His document, for example, protested to the Democratic and Republican platform makers that America's shareholders are subject to double taxation without representation.

First the corporation is taxed. Then the shareholders' dividends are taxed again as personal income. Who are these shareholders? Javits asked with more anger than rhetoric in his voice as we discussed his new movement one day between conventions.

There are now 14 million people who hold shares in corporations," he said. "Many millions more—one has yet figured the huge total—have a real stake in these corporations because they belong to pension plans or union retirement funds or hold insurance policies covered by funds which are, in turn, invested.

It is certain they total scores of millions scattered across the United States. Let me tell you they represent a political force. They have their gripes and we hope they'll soon discover they have the voting power to do something about them. That's where our movement comes in."

A current United Shareholders' survey reflects the small stock owners' problems. The survey asks:

"Have you ever written to your Senator or Congressman regarding legislation affecting taxes, corporate or personal?"

"Do you depend solely on the income from your investment or are you gainfully employed?"

"DO YOU READ the annual reports of the company on your investment list?"

"Have you ever written to any of the presidents of any of the companies in which you own stock?"

From memory, name as many presidents as you can in corporations in which you own shares. From memory name the products of these corporations.

"Have you ever attended a stockholders' meeting?"

There you have it, the beginning of the education of the third force, the small shareholders in what is rapidly becoming a people's, or a consumers' capitalism. It's ambitious. But, if successful, many of the nation's political, labor and business leaders will have to move over to make room for some influential newcomers.

Designers Still Make Their Own Fashions

NEW YORK (AP) — Fashion designers still have a mind of their own.

This reassuring fact became apparent in the first afternoon showings of a week-long display of fall clothes by the New York couture group for 230 visiting fashion editors.

With the soft, liquid, languid and low-waisted ensemble a shoo-in for dominant silhouette, along came Jane Derby Monday with determinedly controlled oval skirts, Oleg Cassini with figure-hugging sheaths, and the Marquise collection with an almost exclusive preoccupation with leather and fur.

Mrs. Derby called her outline of rounded, tapered skirt below a narrow bodice "the ninepin silhouette." While it didn't bowl anyone over, it nonetheless was cordially received by the fashion press.

In the Marquise collection, designed by Philippe Tournaye, the animal kingdom was given top billing. Nobody has polled the fur-bearers on their reaction, but there's no denying Tournaye put some little known pelts on the fashion map.

A coat of Australian o'possum had a Basque green lining to match its dress. A three-quarter Burgundy greatcoat was lined with Norwegian fox to keep warm the matching nubby wool crepe dress under it. A full-length antelope suede coat was trimmed with fisher. There were white mink ascots and trimmings and notes of sable, chinchilla and nutria lavished on coats, suits and costumes.

LONG WAY FROM HOME
STERLING, Colo. (AP)—For decades people here wondered what kind of flowering tree grows in the courthouse square.

Asst. County Agent Bob Coissant got so many inquiries about the tree, believed planted around the turn of the century, he sent a branch to Dr. H. D. Harrington, University of Colorado botanist.

Dr. Harrington drew this conclusion: The tree is a member of the family sapindaceae native to northern China. Genus is xanthoxerces, and the species is sorbifolia.

SWEET SUCCOR — Swimming perils can hold no terror comparable to the pleasure of being fished from the drink by Ann Hornsby, 18, who rules the life guards' roost at the Hilton Hotel swimming pool in San Antonio, Tex. Blonde Ann, city's only gal guard, is Rogers Hornsby's granddaughter.

day night to take up further study of the income tax and Mayor Dean Crammer's six-month trial income tax program. At the same time, Council expects to hear a report on the mayor's proposed street weight ordinance and to consider an offer by the Ohio Edison Co. to purchase the street lighting system.

Blasts at Mayor

On the subject of the mayor's proposed tax, Councilman Carl Abe said he could see no reason to "jump" at making recommendations on the proposal. He said, "If the mayor had spent as much time earlier on the financial problem as he is now," the situation wouldn't be so critical. Instead of supporting the tax, he threatened to veto it, Abe said, thereby delaying correction of the problem.

Councilman Koenreich added that he felt it was time Council did a job for the city and went after an income tax. The city needs money for its operations, he said, and Council should make arrangements to get it.

He said that if a tax were enacted as early as possible, it would not be installed before Oct. 1. In spent considerable money in the meantime, the city would have meeting interest rates on bank loans made to pay city employees.

At last night's meeting Council enacted an emergency ordinance authorizing the auditor to borrow $5,000 so that July 30 payrolls can be met. At present, only $4,400 remains in the General Fund, Koenreich said.

A suggested study of a gross Salem tax on retail sales at their source was made by Councilman Harold Asty. However, Koenreich and Abe explained that the sales tax privilege has been pre-empted by the state. Asty stated that he was proposing the measure only because "everybody else was making tax suggestions."

On the last year status of the city's finances, Councilman Koenreich pointed out that the city has spent 51 per cent of its appropriation. The funds in most serious conditions are the Service and Lighting Funds, he noted. The engineer's appropriation, minus the engineer's salary for the remainder of the year, shows only $169 remaining, he noted. This will sharply curtail engineering assistance for the remainder of the year, Koenreich said.

It was indicated two weeks ago by Councilman Donald Cannon that the street lighting renovation program would have to be halted because of low funds. He said last night it would require about $9,000 to finish the northern half of the city.

Mayor Crammer reported that final details necessary to begin construction on the E. Pershing St. Municipal Parking Lot were nearing completion. He said he expects several homes on the site to be razed in the near future and some "action" on the site to take place within 20 days.

The mayor also reported that curbs had been painted and "no parking" signs installed on N. Lincoln and N. Ellsworth Aves. He said complaints on the no parking restrictions have been heard from two merchants on the streets.

Action on the vacation of Trimble Ave. has been delayed at least until the next Council meeting and until the City Planning Commission approves the vacation, it was reported. Two opposition arguments against the vacation were heard last night at the public hearing held by Council. Both residents claimed closing the street would eliminate their access route to their properties.

A request for specifications for operation of the new city-owned land fill was requested by the Dunlap and Eichler firm. Councilman Koenreich said if contracts on the operation can be let, it will solve some of the problems Council has had regarding income tax monies being spent for the operation and regarding the overflow at the existing dump.

Cannon reported that four new street lights have been installed on Perry Ave. and two on W. 5th St.

Officers of Nease Chemical Co. are: President, Dr. Aubrey Nease; secretary, Frederic E. Emmerich; treasurer, W. Frederick Huber of State College; assistant treasurer, Arlene Weber of State College. ### Canton Woman Held In Hit-Skip Mishap

Charges of leaving the scene of an accident have been filed in mayor's court here against a 22-year-old Canton woman who is also expected to be charged in Stark County with auto theft.

The woman Evelyn Franzone of 1439 Park Ave., Canton, was apprehended early Tuesday morning by Constable Roy Painter of Hanoverton after the car she was driving ran into a ditch near Hanoverton.

When the woman refused to answer the constable's questions, he checked the license number and found the car had been reported stolen from a Theodore Scafe of Massillon.

Investigation also showed that she had been in an accident Monday night when she ran into a parked car on S. Ellsworth Ave. The car was owned by Bruce Heron of 1485 Cleveland Ave. who signed the hit-skip complaint against the woman.

Constable Painter turned the woman over to Canton police. The car was towed to Lisbon where it was released to its owner.

Expansion At Kent State To Commence

KENT — Kent State University trustees took action on nearly 10 million dollars worth of residence hall construction yesterday, letting bids of $2,042,866 and approving loan applications and bond sales totaling seven million dollars.

President George S. Bowman was authorized to apply for a six-million dollar U.S. Housing and Home Financing Agency loan and to market publicly for an additional million dollars in bonds.

The board let to Alger-Rau and Associates Inc. of Cleveland contracts to build two four-story residence halls for men. Construction will begin next month and completion is scheduled for September, 1961.

Each building will house 375 men students. University officials described the student housing shortage as critical. They are hopeful the loans authorized yesterday would result in additional housing by 1963 when a full-time enrollment of 10,626 is expected.

The planned buildings will house 1,600 students including 100 units for married students. The other 1,500 will be divided equally among single men and women students.

Enrollment this fall will be 8,000 with campus housing available only for 2,000 coeds and 999 men. The balance will room in the town or commute.

Destroyer

sadder than when a Japanese suicide plane crashed into her during the Battle of Okinawa in 1945. She listed 11 degrees to port but did not sink.

"Thank God we unloaded the ammunition," said Mukhalian, sailing the Ammen on her last voyage to a moth-ball berth.

After the crash the Collett, with 25 feet of her bow bent back like a stubbed toenail, lay off in the fog and asked the listing Ammen if it needed assistance.

Help was already on the way. Fog made rescue operations difficult. But small boats from the harbor department of the resort town of Newport Beach arrived and began to shuttle the dead and injured to shore, five miles away.

A Marine helicopter flew others to a hospital ship 20 miles away at the Long Beach Naval Station. The crash produced quiet heroism but no panic.

Coxswain Alex Amavisca, 20, of Yuma, Ariz., was in the Collett's bow bosun's locker when the ships slammed together.

Stunned and shaken, he was in a section twisted completely back. But he walked out unhurt and later ferried two doctors in a motor whaleboat to the drifting Ammen. When he returned to his ship, Amavisca sat quietly on a pile of rope and said, "I've got a headache."

Why did the ships collide? Both captains said they had their radar turned on. The Ammen's skipper said he had been tracking the Collett for 20 minutes before the crash. They refused to go into details of the speed of their ships or their maneuvers, pending an official Navy inquiry.

delegates are pledged to Nixon. But he said on a taped television interview he doesn't charge that the convention is rigged.

Despite the seemingly insurmountable odds, Rockefeller's crewmen moved in force. They rented most of the suites in one hotel, took over most of one floor of another, and leased a theater building.

The public demonstrations for Rockefeller, largely carried on so far by teen-agers ringing cowbells, appeared as amateurish as those arranged for Stevenson in Los Angeles.

Behind all this lurked the remote possibility that Rockefeller might be persuaded after all to take second place on a Nixon ticket.

The governor has said he won't be in about as strong language as a man can use. But not all of his supporters are crossing off the possibility.

Some of them say, for instance, that Rockefeller might change his mind if there were a great, well-attended convention demand for him as the ice presidential nominee. Party loyalty might play a part then.

Both Hall and Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary, said they and the vice president are taking Rockefeller's word for it that he won't accept second place "under any circumstances."

Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, an old Taft man, said he thinks the vice presidential contest now lies between U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, the party's national chairman. Klein indicated that Nixon won't make any choice until he himself is nominated.

Survey of County School Districts To Be Requested

LISBON — The Columbiana County School Board will request the Ohio Board of Education to have Ohio University make a survey of the Southern Local and Franklin Local Districts in respect to consolidation or division of the territories, it was voted at the county board's meeting Tuesday night.

The Southern Local and Franklin Board suggested that the survey be made.

In other business the board renewed the contract of Mrs. June K. Ingraham, office secretary, for another two years at an annual salary of $4,200.

Fred Lohman of Salineville attendance officer, also was re-hired for two years at a yearly salary of $2,980, which includes $450 for traveling allowance.

The county board will recommend to the local boards that their school bus drivers be examined by Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner. The drivers may be examined by their local physicians at the drivers' costs.

Supt. James L. McBride reported on the kindergarten classes being held this summer in the Beaver Local School District. Classes are being held at Calcutta, West Point and Rogers schools. The program may be the solution for schools that haven't space for kindergarten classes during the school term, McBride said.

He also reported on his letter to the county commissioners requesting larger office quarters and new equipment.

Bills of $559 were read and ordered paid.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, Aug. 16 at 8 p.m.

Further evidence of the policy of replying to Soviet charges came late Tuesday when the State Department rejected a Soviet demand made only a few hours earlier that 20 armed Americans be withdrawn from the Congo.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, termed the Moscow demand a "desperate and almost frantic effort" to obstruct U.N. efforts to restore order in the riot-torn Congo. He said the Americans were there to help the U.N. land troops from other countries as well as supplies for U.N. units.

As examples of the "provocative" Soviet campaign since the breakup of the May summit conference, Herter listed for newsmen: the recent Soviet downing of the U.S. RB47 plane, recent statements by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the Berlin situation, Soviet attitudes on Cuba and the Congo, and Moscow's breakdown of the Geneva disarmament talks.

Asked if Khrushchev might be rattling sabers to cover up troubles at home, Herter declined a yes or no answer. But he said it was "a factor that has to be considered."

License of Salem Tavern Suspended

Hendron's Tavern, 441 S. Ellsworth Ave., has received a seven-day license suspension from the Ohio Department of Liquor Control on a charge of permitting the consumption of liquor on the premises after closing hours.

The violation took place March 26, according to the report from the department. The suspension will begin July 28 and end at midnight Aug. 3.

The department also reports that the Military Order of Coots, Pup Tent 12, in East Liverpool received concurrent 21-day suspensions on charges of Sunday sales and sale to non-members. The suspensions will begin on July 29 and end Aug. 18. The offenses were committed in May.

Two to Get Hearing On Contributing Count

leged brutalities to Belgian settlers in the Congo.

U.N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche reported Sweden, Italy, Canada, Burma and several Latin American countries were sending troops to join the U.N. force headed by Maj. Gen. Carl von Horn of Sweden. The force is now made up solely of Africans, and so far about 3,500 men have arrived.

A battalion of 630 Swedes was expected today from the Middle East, where it has been serving with the U.N. Emergency Force in Palestine.

The Soviet Union demanded Tuesday that the United States pull out a detachment of 20 armed men the Soviet Union said had landed at Leopoldville. The State Department said the detachment was there to help land U.N. troops and supplies, the bulk of which are being transported by U.S. planes.

Getting the Belgian withdrawal under way was seen as a victory for the U.N. operation. But Premier patrice Lumumba insisted he wanted all Belgian troops out of the Congo at once and indicated he still is considering an appeal to the Soviet Union for help.

Lumumba said Sunday he would ask Moscow to send troops if the Belgians did not get out in three days. U.N. sources and Western diplomats did not take his ultimatum too seriously, and Lumumba would not say whether he planned to send a telegram to Moscow today after his midnight deadline.

Belgian Ambassador Jean van den Bosch charged that violence against Belgian settlers was continuing in various parts of the Congo and that appeals for help were constantly pouring in.

"Belgian paratroops were dispatched to five points in the Oriental Province in the eastern part of the country," he said.

A test of U.N. authority is expected soon at Matabi, the lower Congo River port that is the infant republic's sole base for sea commerce. Matabi is reported held by 1,500 mutinous Congolese soldiers with heavy infantry equipment. About 1,000 Moroccan and Ghanaian troops arrived there from Leopoldville Monday, and U.N. leaders expect them to take over the port within 48 hours.

2 Soil Conservation Co-operators Approved

Two From Salem at NSA Convention

Mrs. Edwin R. Smith and Miss Mildred Alek are representing Salem Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) at the NSA's 15th annual convention being held today through Saturday in Pittsburgh, Pa.

They were chosen by their fellow NSA members as delegate and alternate, respectively, to do the official voting on all business matters during the four-day session.

Miss Bernice Gaughan, president of the local chapter, and Miss Rosaleen Keeler will also attend the convention.

Over 1,400 secretaries from the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and Mexico will attend forums, choose new officers, hear reports on all NSA's educational, civic and professional activities, and witness the selection of the "1960 secretary of the year" and the "1960 best dressed working woman" contest.

As the world's largest organization of business women in one profession, NSA has approximately 22,000 members in 500 chapters. The local chapter was established in 1957 and has 36 members, headed by Miss Gaughan.

Relief Hurlers Flop; Yankees Nail Indians Again

Skowron's Blow In 9th Wins It

Bell to Face Ditmar In Tonight's Game

CLEVELAND (AP) — New York's Bill Skowron hit a pair of home runs and a game-winning double which scored three runs in the ninth inning and beat Cleveland 13-11 Tuesday night.

But the man said he didn't feel well. Wow!

"Might have been something I ate," said the big Moose in the clubhouse after the wild game. "I never do hit good in this ball park. In seven years I've had one big series here. So how can you figure it out?"

The Yanks staged their big rally. A walk, a single by Mickey Mantle, an error by pitcher Ted Bowfield and Berra's single scored one run and left the bases filled. The Skowron drilled a shot into left field that cleared the bases. Berra scoring all the way from first on a belly slide.

Tony Kubek's single scored Skowron with the final run. Casey Tells How He Did It

"That Berra belly-slammings over home plate was the nicest sight I've seen all season," shouted Manager Casey Stengel in the dressing room. "He comes all the way around from left and shifts into high gear about third."

"Who said he can't run?"

"I feel something is gonna happen when we come up in the ninth," continued the Old Professor. "We been driving them back against the fence with those big strokes."

"Maybe we tire those little fellows out. They been bunting and running the bases and trying to steal. So we get 'em back against the fence and then start dropping the ball in between."

Was it the biggest victory for the Yanks, who continued their two-game lead in the American League?

"It's one of them," Casey replied.

And for the Indians, who now trail in third place by 3½ games, this may have been the crusher to their pennant dreams.

"I don't want to talk about it," said Manager Joe Gordon. "I won't be able to, but I'm trying to forget it."

Each team collected 16 hits in the 3:22 game as 11 pitchers tried to stem the hit tide.

The game demonstrated once more the weakness of Cleveland relief pitching. Johnny Klippstein, Bobby Locke and Bowsfield all flopped.

Bell Gets Call Tonight

"We'll be back tonight and Gary Bell (8-7) will be in there all the way," Gordon said. Facing him in the final of the three-game series will be the Yanks' Art Ditmar (7-6).

Roger Maris, the AL's leading slugger, smacked a two-run homer (No. 30) off starter Jim Perry in the third inning to get the Yanks started. Jimmy Piersall hit his 10th homer for the Indians.

The Indians had plenty of offensive highlights. Vic Power stretched his hitting streak through 19 games and Ken Aspromonte extended his to 17.

Power drove in four runs with a pair of singles and a double to raise his average to .320. Aspromonte had two singles and raised his mark to .321.

Home Runs—New York, Skowron 2 (16), Maris (30), Berra (10) Cleveland, Piersall (10).

KSU APPOINTS GOLF COACH

Julius "Jay" Fischer has been appointed Kent State University golf coach to succeed Howard Morfette. Fischer had served as head track coach at Kent since 1954. A new track coach will be appointed later.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By RUFUS LIDE

The way the new Boat and Boat- ing regulations are not being enforced on Berlin Lake is causing a lot of unfavorable comment by certain people, including a sports writer for an out-of-town publication.

This writer hops right on the officials at Berlin Reservoir as if they were not doing their duty when actually they are not state law enforcement agents.

All peace officers, including the game protectors and the highway patrol, have authority as well as the township constables. The question is: What do they have to enforce the boating regulations?

For instance, I am a game protector and I do not even have a pair of feet flippers and water wings. How am I going to run down a speeding boat? Fortunately, in my case, we do not allow motors on any of the waters under control of the Division of Wildlife in Columbiana County so we have no local problem.

TO GET BACK to the Berlin Lake situation, it isn't fair to poke criticism at the federal employees whose prime duty is to keep the lake under operation as a flood control measure. Fishing and boating is a privilege now being enjoyed under a federal-state agreement.

I haven't talked to any of the members of the army engineers, but I think it is only common sense and reasoning that some other approach to the problem must be reached without placing an additional burden on the engineering section of our federal government.

Suppose the army engineers said, "OK, fellows, there is unfavorable criticism being heaped at us when we are not state officials enforcing state laws, so, since there does not seem to be any regulations enforced on Berlin Lake, we can remedy the situation immediately once and for all . . . no more boating allowed."

IT IS MY OPINION that a second look should be taken along all angles before persons should be over-exercised about a new departure from the old, practically non-existing regulations.

I firmly believe that enforcement regulations will be worked out. In fact, they must be worked out to control these "water cowboys" or the boaters enjoying the boating and fishing privileges in a safe and sane manner will lose a most enjoyable sport.

Don't say it is not the "cowboys" who are causing the trouble! They are the direct source of the boating trouble.

When enforcement officers are provided with speedy craft where they can overtake any violator, practically the same as a Highway Patrolman chasing a speeder on a freeway, they will be able to haul them in.

It would be better to give the new boating department every opportunity to thrash out what legislation has provided before becoming too critical of a situation that has to be worked out. Remember "the Mills of the Gods grind slowly."

Biggest PGA Entry Field Preps Today

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The biggest field in Professional Golfers Assn. history had a free ride coming today, a final practice round before the chips go down in the 42nd championship.

The free stroll gives the group of champions, ex-champions and hopefuls one last chance to find the answers to a flock of questions the revamped 7,165-yard par-70 Firestone Country Club course will ask in the $60,000 four-day 72-hole marathon starting Thursday and ending Sunday.

Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., who would like to add this one to his National Open and Masters titles and the $9,000 top prize to his year's earnings of $66,603, may have found the answers Tuesday.

Arnie, who won the 1957 Rubber City Open over this same acreage but far from the same course, fired a torrid 35-31-66 Tuesday. Since his 1957 win the course has added 40 sand traps, two new greens, two lakes and some yardage and lost a stroke in par.

But Palmer, after a couple of probing practice rounds, went out Tuesday to give the new layout a real try. He three-putted the second hole for a bogey and the fourth for a double bogey and was three over par at the end of four, then he suddenly caught fire.

He birdied the fifth from 15 feet, the seventh from 3, the eighth from 20, the 10th from 20, the 11th from 10, the 12th from 7, and the 15th from 15 feet.

Asked why he didn't save the 66 for the tournament opener, confident Palmer grinned and answered, "I can do it again."

If he does he could run away with the tournament, for no one else has been burning up the course. Dow Finsterwald had a 64 for 17 holes but quit when a heavy rainstorm swept over the rolling tree-infested course. Bob Goalby had a 69 for the day's only other subpar performance.

The field going for the crown held by Bob Rosburg is a talented one. Despite the withdrawal of former PGA kings Gene Sarazen, Johnny Revolta, and Paul Runyan, there are still 15 former winners along with seven ex-National Open champions competing for the big prize.

Majors Will Expand --- But Where?

NEW YORK (AP)—How, when and where are the big problems facing the major baseball leagues today, now that expansion is a virtual certainty.

The National League wants each circuit to take in two new clubs. The American favors only one additional club. Branch Rickey wants eight new clubs in the form of a third league, the Continental.

Rickey, president of the embryo Continental, said he was surprised that any member of the National League favors internal expansion, meaning enlargement instead of acceptance of a new league.

He pointed out the only deterrent to the Continental League is what he termed the unreasonable indemnity demands of the American Assn. and the International League.

Rickey has agreed to meet with committees of the two major leagues to discuss the whole expansion issue. Donald Grant, president of the New York club of the Continental League, said he sees the National League action as "an opening wedge in the ultimate solution, at least 24 big league teams."

It is apparent the Continental League sponsors aren't going to give up without a fight and are optimistic despite the fact the National League voted for only a two-team expansion and isn't thinking in terms of a new league.

Hank Greenberg of the Chicago White Sox, a member of the American League's three-man Expansion Committee, touched on one problem which might determine the extent of expansion — manpower. He is convinced there aren't enough big league prospects to stock four new teams, let alone a new league.

The cities which are considered ripe prospects in case of limited expansion are New York, Houston, Toronto, and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Of these, New York seems reasonably certain to land a franchise, particularly as blueprints for a new stadium call for completion of the park in 1962. The club probably would be able to play either in Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds in the meantime.

Los Angeles also is a prospect for an American League entry after the Dodgers have their own park in Chavez Ravine. Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers is known to favor the idea. The Chavez Ravine park isn't expected to be ready before 1962, however.

So availability of parks could be a factor as to when expansion goes into effect.

Gollan Will Defend Track Rabbit Title

Defending champion Ray Gollan of Youngstown and runner-up Dave Meyers of Alliance will both return to Lake Placidia on July 30 and 31 to take part in the Ohio State Track Rabbit Championship Races.

Boys and girls, aged 8 to 15, are eligible to compete. More than 150 divers from all parts of Ohio are expected to take part in the eliminations.

The races are sponsored by the George D. Worth Post 574, American Legion.

Bad Buccos Lose, Braves Win

Giant Rookie Tosses One-Hitter At Phillies in First NL Start

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Juan Marichal, 21, a rookie from the Dominican Republic, has become the first National League pitcher in modern days to pitch a one-hitter in his first big league start.
The 5-10 right-hander who was the strikeout king of the Pacific Coast League until he was recalled from Tacoma with an 11-5 record, had a perfect game for 6 1-3 innings Tuesday night for San Francisco. An error by Eddie Broussard let the Phils' Tony Taylor reach base.
Marichal lost his no-hit bid when pinch hitter Clay Dalrymple singled with two out in the eighth. The newcomer struck out 12, only three short of the record that the Dodgers' Karl Spooner set in his first start in 1954.

Ciney Hurler Had No-Hitter
No other National League pitcher in modern days, since 1900, has thrown a one-hitter in his first start. Charles Jones of Cincinnati pitched a no-hitter in his major league debut in 1884. Two American Leaguers have broken in with one-hitters, Addie Joss of Cleveland and Mike Fornieles of Washington.
Milwaukee sliced Pittsburgh's league lead to 1 1/2 games by winning its sixth straight on a 9-5 decision over St. Louis, while Pittsburgh was losing to Los Angeles 4-1. Cincinnati whipped Chicago 5-4 behind Jim O'Toole in the other game.
Marichal's performance could be a tonic to the floundering Giants who have dropped into the second division. Mixing a change-up with curves and fast balls, he mowed down the first 19 Phils.

After Johnny Callisori fled out, Marichal wild pitched and then issued his only walk to Pancho Herrera before Willie Mays pulled down Joe Morgan's long fly, ending the inning.
Larker Homers For LA
Dalrymple, batting for catcher Cal Neeman with two out in the eighth, hit Marichal's first pitch sharply to center field. The rookie wasn't bothered. He got the next man to end the eighth and retired the side in order in the ninth.
Norm Larker's two-run home run in the seventh gave Los Angeles a come-from-behind victory over the Pirates who led 40 going to the last of the sixth. Larker also had two singles, boosting his league-leading batting average to .359.
Milwaukee blew a three-run lead but took advantage of the shaky Cardinal defense to edge closer to the Pirates. Hank Aaron's 25th homer in the eighth was the clincher for relief man Ron Piche. Curt Flood, Stan Musial and Julian Javier homered for the Cards.

Woody Hayes, Vic Power Have Vocal Battle at Stadium

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland baseball club maintained a discreet silence today about a well known athletic figure's vocal fireworks aimed at first baseman Vic Power.

Woody Hayes, who coaches football at Ohio State, used the traditional ticket-holder's privilege of sounding off Monday night when the Indians were playing the New York Yankees. Most of his comments were aimed at Power.

The heckling began about the fifth inning. Power, quick to boil, was fresh from a fist fight Sunday with Washington's Earl Batley. Here's Power's story:

"He (Hayes) call me a show boat. He says I should play like a big leaguer. There is a lady with him so I don't say anything not good."

"I tell him I like to see him alone and talk to him. I know he's a football coach."

Hayes, who was booed by some fans in the area, admitted he chided Power for his play.

"He was playing too loose," said Hayes. "I told him he should act like a big league ball player and catch the ball with two hands. I like team men myself. It looked like showboating to me."

Gordon Cobbleback, sports editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, wrote in his column for today's edition:

"Woody Hayes, the Ohio State football coach, spent a happy Monday evening in a box behind the Indians' dugout, heckling Vic Power with repeated suggestions that he cut out the showboating and play like a big leaguer."

"Mr. Hayes has undergone heckling from the stands himself (in some notable cases he has asked for it), and I have no doubt that he has reflected bitterly upon the cowardice of a man who snipes at a public performer from the safety of a reserved seat."

"It may be that Power is, indeed, a bit of a showboat, but he gets the job done as no more than a half dozen first basemen in all history have done it. If he isn't big leaguer there are no big leaguers—here or in Columbus."

Cincinnati Honors Blackwell, Roush

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eddie Roush and Ewell Blackwell, two of the Cincinnati Reds' all-time baseball greats, now are members of the team's own Hall of Fame.

Roush played on Cincinnati's world championship team of 1919 as an outfielder. Blackwell once almost matched Johnny Vander Meer's feat of pitching two no-hit games in a row.

They were inducted into the Cincinnati Hall of Fame Tuesday night in ceremonies which preceded the Reds' 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Roush twice led the league in hitting. Blackwell won 16 straight in 1947.

Roush at 67 is retired and living at Oakdale City, Ind., on investments made from his baseball earnings.

"Sometimes I'll go out and help a fellow put up hay but I haven't taken any regular job," he says.

Blackwell is a distiller's sales representative in his home town of Tampa, Fla. This was the first time he had been back to Cincinnati since he was traded to the New York Yankees in 1952.

Grid Browns Swap Jim Ninowski to Lions

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns gave quarterbacks Milt Plum and Len Dawson a vote of confidence when he traded passer Jim Ninowski to the Detroit Lions Tuesday.

In exchange the Browns received Bob Long, a veteran linebacker, plus a high draft choice.

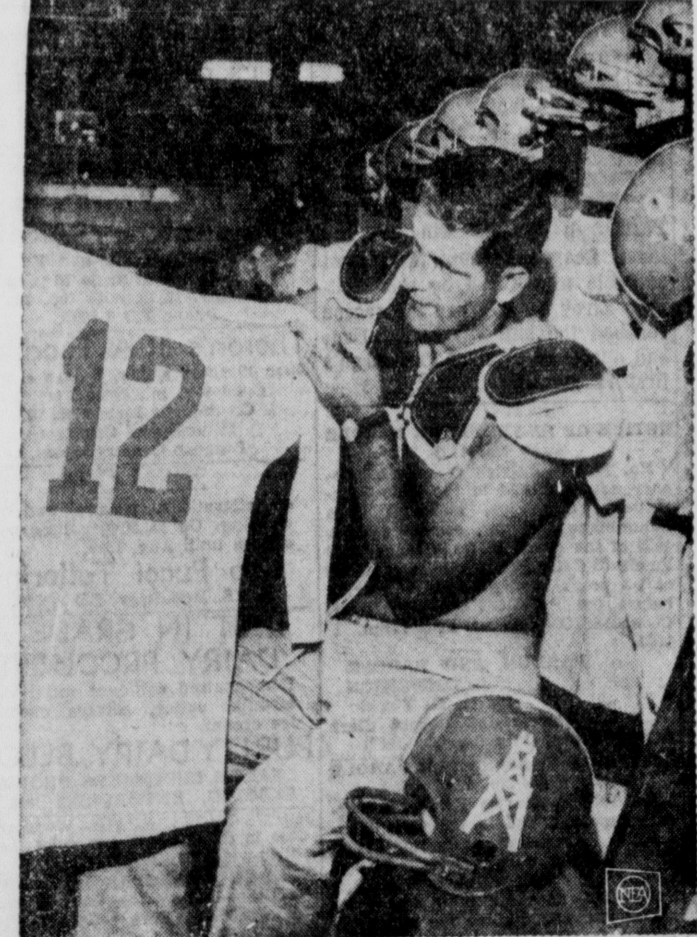

A year ago, Ninowski, a former Michigan State star, was asked to be the Browns' regular quarterback. He couldn't do the job, however, and the team stuck with Plum.

The switch to Detroit should be a happy one for Ninowski. The Motor City is his home town and with Earl Morrall around as the only experienced passer, the race for the starting job with the Lions will be interesting. Morrall and Ninowski were college teammates.

"We may be giving Detroit a Brown. We prefer to work with two, however. I'm satisfied that Dawson can help us."

Hook, 'Robby' Lead Redlegs To 4-1 Victory

CINCINNATI (AP)—It's becoming more apparent all the time that the Cincinnati Reds probably would be flirting with last place in the National League if it weren't for their two young pitchers, Jim O'Toole and Jay Hook.

O'Toole built his record to 8-8 Tuesday night as he pitched the Reds to a 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Hook is 7-8. Each has pitched five complete games, giving them 10 of the 15 complete contests turned in by Redleg hurlers in 83 starts.

O'Toole allowed only six hits Tuesday night.

The game was marked by a re-injury of Frank Robinson's left ankle after the first sacker had hit two home runs. He jammed it going into second base in the eighth inning and bowed out of the contest.

And Reds' third baseman Eddie Kasko was offering up thanks after the game that he didn't get hurt by Frank Thomas' line smash that went for a single in the fourth inning.

It was a belt-high drive that Kasko couldn't even see until it was right at him.

"My thought was of my wife and child," said Kasko as he told of the screaming liner. He said he didn't see the ball because the Chicago player waiting to come to bat was in his line of vision for a split second. He could only throw up his glove hand in self-protection.

O'Toole and the Cubs' Don Cardwell hooked up in a scoreless duel until Robinson homered to start the fifth. Robinson got his second homer in the sixth after Vada Pinson opened with a double.

The Reds got to reliever Joe Schaffernoth for their final run in the eighth. It came on a double by Wally Post, a walk to Robinson, an outfield fly and Roy McMillan's infield out.

O'Toole allowed the Cubs only two hits through the first six innings and didn't allow a man to get to second. In the seventh the Reds picked up their run on singles by Thomas, Ron Santo and Dick Gernert.

A two-night doubleheader is on tap for the teams tonight. Manager Fred Hutchinson named Don Newcombe and Hook to pitch for the Reds against Glenn Hobbie and Mark Freeman.

First Reading Given To Pay Raise Measure

COLUMBIANA — An ordinance setting up pay raises for all full-time village employees was approved for first reading at Village Council's meeting Tuesday night. It calls for increases of 10 cents per hour for hourly paid workers and $25 a month for department heads.

Starting the legislation through the procedure of three formal readings indicates final action can be expected at next month's second meeting Aug. 16, with the ordinance then becoming effective 30 days after that or later.

The vote to approve first reading was unanimous, but the finance committee, which had recommended the raises, will meet to work out one possible amendment to the proposed ordinance. The change will be in the classification of police officers, replacing the present system under which the positions are listed as patrolman no. 1, patrolman no. 2, etc.

In its only other major bit of legislation, Council set up a small-scale street surfacing program, the village participation being limited to the extent of the $3,000 in the appropriate fund.

The legislators accepted the bid of Robert L. Snyder of Hanover for seal-coating of about 10,000 square yards of local streets and alleys at a rate of 30 cents a square yard.

Council confirmed the appointment of Marcus A. Hum as chief of the Columbiana fire department. His name was offered by Mayor E. L. Calvin following the recommendation of department members who voted last week on a successor to R. Don Hisey, who resigned the post when he was appointed street commissioner.

At their meeting Monday night in Pavilion 2 at Firestone Park, heard first hand reports on the economic and geographic makeup of the countries of Italy and Chile.

The speakers, both studying toward master's degrees at Kent State University, were Miss Laura Schwarz of Milan, Italy, and Mrs. Teresa Salas of Santiago, Chile.

They were introduced by Miss Beverly Bair, a Kent State student and daughter of L. D. Bair, program chairman. Both speakers, teachers in their homeland, expressed their pleasure at the opportunity of studying in this country under Fulbright scholarships.

Among their major impressions of the United States were the high standard of living of the working class and the way Americans get together in so many different ways and work together on so many community projects.

FOUR DELEGATES to recent Boys and Girls State programs discussed their experiences for members of Rotary Club at its meeting Monday night at Valley Golf Club.

They were Miss Loretta Foertch, Neil Joebchen, and Otis Vestfals of Columbiana High School and Ross Dillon of Fairfield-Waterford High School. Dr. W. D. Jones was program chairman. Visiting Rotarians were David Edgerton and Charles McKenzie of Lisbon and Charles Bradshaw of Boardman.

A meeting of the Columbiana school board, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until next Monday night because of the inability of one of the members to be on hand this week. Supt. Delmore W. Bailey announced.

Midway Grange officers have announced there will be no meeting Thursday night. The next session will be in August.

MR. AND MRS. CHALES Fisher and son Dick of Columbiana and their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Wright of Columbus, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Irl Fisher of Mansfield. The time was spent on the Fisher yacht at Sandusky.

Miss Carol Lower is spending a few days at the Majorette Camp at Sycamore, Ind. Miss Suzanne Karcher is also in attendance.

Miss Nancy Lower is attending the Girl Scout Camp Millwood at North Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynas Schaffer and Mrs. Margaret Brungard visited the George Schaffer home near Pittsburgh Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Pepple have returned from a week's vacation spent in Atlantic City, N.J.

Patrolmen Probe 3 Minor Mishaps

Three minor accidents were investigated Tuesday by patrolmen of the Lisbon post of the State Highway Patrol.

At 4:15 p.m., cars driven by John Thompson, 49, of 119 Pritchard Ave., Lisbon, and Kenneth Brockhold, 34, of RD 2, Leetonia, collided on Rt. 164, three and one half miles north of Lisbon. Patrolmen said Brockhold pulled out of a side road into the path of Thompson. Brockhold was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way.

A car driven by Marvin Buckley, 26, of RD 5, Lisbon, went into a ditch at 8 a.m. as Buckley attempted to avoid a collision with an auto driven by Roy Carter, 17, of RD 1, East Liverpool. Patrolmen said Carter started to make a left turn off Rt. 7, about six and a half miles south of Rogers, and then attempted to get back into his own lane when he observed approaching traffic. He moved back into the right-hand lane while Buckley was passing, forcing Buckley into the ditch, patrolmen said.

At 6:50 p.m., a car driven by Albert Kiehl, 67, of RD 1, Rogers backed into a parked auto owned by Peter Leonardos of New Castle as the former was backing from a parking lot on Rt. 154, just east of Rt. 170, patrolmen said.

White Sox Keep Pace With Yanks; Win 6-0

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League pennant race is a study in contrasts. While the New York Yankees bludgeoned the opposition with home runs, flexing their muscles to make up for faulty pitching, the Chicago White Sox play it cute with speed and tight pitching.

The Yanks maintained their two-game lead over the second-place White Sox by scoring five in the ninth to top Cleveland 13-11 Tuesday night. Chicago cashed in on Billy Pierce's four-hit pitching and a three-run inside home run by speedy Luis Aparicio for a 6-0 triumph over Boston.

Pedro Ramos pitched no-hit ball for seven innings and wound up with a one-hit shutout as Washington downed Detroit 5-0. The only hit was a lead-off single by Rocky Colavito in the eighth inning. Baltimore came up with six runs in the 10th inning to top Kansas City 9-3, with Bud Daley's wild pitch permitting the tie-breaking run to score.

Aparicio's dash around the bases on a ball that got past center fielder Willie Tasby was the big story of Chicago's offense. Pierce, winning his eighth, beat Boston for the third time. Frank Sullivan was his victim.

Baltimore held a 3-0 lead over the As going to the last of the seventh when Pete Daley's three-run homer tied the score against Chuck Estrada. Hoyt Wilhelm came in to pitch 3-13 hitless innings of relief ball, winning his seventh. Bud Daley lost his sixth.

In the study, electronic computers will be used to develop a formula for the best method of detecting potential heart conditions. Dwork said such a method would be especially helpful for those between the ages of 46 and 62 years when conditions often lead to heart disorders.

Unknown African Territory Takes on Lonely Prominence

LUANDA, Angola (AP)—Under the relentless pressure of African upheaval, the centuries-old isolation of Portuguese Angola is fast coming to an end.

It is being replaced by a new kind of isolation. Instead of obscurity—an obscurity that has made this southwest African territory one of the great unknowns of the continent—Angola is taking on a lonely and unwanted prominence.

Together with Mozambique, its sister Portuguese province on the African east coast, Angola is emerging as the last big stronghold of traditional European colonialism south of the Sahara.

"Thus far and no further"—this is the answer to on-coming black nationalism that Portuguese officials repeat here with regularity. They concede that the trend of events seems to be running hard against them. But they contend that the Portuguese are different from the other European colonizers who came to Africa.

Portugal is a dictatorship which stifles political opposition, not only in the overseas provinces but in the mother country as well. Press censorship, a widespread network of informers, and rigid clamps on education all discourage the growth of ideas about democracy and self determination.

Africans in Angola and Mozambique have little chance to learn the precepts of liberty which, to the Portuguese way of thinking, undermined British French and Belgian rule in Africa.

Because of Portugal's cradle-to-grave thought control, observers in many parts of Africa believe that organized black nationalism movements are practically nonexistent in Angola and Mozambique, at least so far.

When the slightest inkling of subversive activities is suspected, the authorities crack down hard.

The real threat to continued Portuguese rule appears to come from outside, especially from the Leopoldville area where a sizable group of Angolan expatriates will be able to operate openly now that the Congo has black government.

They have the support of Patrice Lumumba, new premier of the Congo, and Kwame Nkrumah, President of Ghana.

Another reason for Portuguese confidence is the economic power, that Mozambique and Angola exercise over the Congo. Most of the copper and other mineral exports are mined in Katanga Province, in the southeast corner of the Congo. Most travel by rail is across either Angola or Mozambique to the ports of Lobito on the west coast or Beira on the east.

If Portugal should close these rail links, admittedly at great loss to its own economy, the Congo could be quickly brought to its knees.
